Psalm 1: Like a Planted Tree

Blessed is the one who does not walk in step with the wicked or stand in the way that sinners take or sit in the company of mockers, but whose delight is in the law of the Lord, and who meditates on his law day and night. That person is like a tree planted by streams of water, which yields its fruit in season and whose leaf does not wither—whatever they do prospers. Not so the wicked! They are like chaff that the wind blows away. Therefore the wicked will not stand in the judgment, nor sinners in the assembly of the righteous. For the Lord watches over the way of the righteous, but the way of the wicked leads to destruction. – Psalm 1

Like a tree planted by streams of water ... Close your eyes and picture it for a moment.

What do you see?

My mind envisions a large, beautiful tree with lush, green branches filled with leaves. The branches invite you to rest under their shade. The tree, unwavering in its strength and position, has deep roots that have stood the test of time.

It's a beautiful picture, isn't it?

But, as I reflect on this chapter, my eyes quickly settle on the words leading up to the picture of the lush tree, Blessed is the one... whose delight is in the law of the Lord, and who meditates on his law day and night. If I’m honest, I fall short of this description daily. This passage feels like a task I can never live up to.

Thankfully, we don’t have to look at it as a task to fulfill our strength. As Christians, we can read this passage through the lens of Jesus and the work he did for us on the cross. He took our wickedness as his own and paid the price so we don’t have to. And, through his incredible gift of mercy and grace, Jesus invites us to come to him often without needing to have it all together. As we read God’s Word, pursue Jesus, talk with him in prayer and spend time with others who do the same, we start to become more like him in the way we think, speak and act. And, our roots begin to deepen and our branches begin to grow.

I want to be a person whose roots run deep, don’t you? Let’s position ourselves to drink deeply from the Word of God and flourish because his life flows through us.

As you spend time with Jesus today, reflect on the goodness of his gift of grace to each of us. Take some time to read Colossians 2:6-7 and John 3:16 and then go back and slowly re-read Psalm 1. Let God’s Word encourage you to draw closer to him. Thank Jesus for his incredible gift of grace. Then, ask him to give you a deeper love for his Word and to continue to make you more like him.

Students, grades 7-9, are invited to the journey of confirmation beginning next Sunday. Each Sunday at 6:00 pm we will learn about and put into practice our Christian faith. Parents and caregivers are encouraged to attend our first meeting to learn more about our confirmation program. If you have any questions, contact Pastor David.

If you ordered a U.S. Flag from Mac, they have arrived. Call him at 712-246-2844.

The Angel Quilters group decided to stop getting together to make quilts. We have lots of material to give to anyone interested. We also have a sewing machine and batting for a small donation. Notify the church office, Sue Burchett, Lois Anderson, or Janet Jones if interested.

I would like to thank everyone who participated in the Future of the UMC Informational meeting. Our denomination is and has been in the national news and people are watching how we work through our differences regarding LGBTQ inclusion in the church. Recognizing that our church (and our community of Shenandoah) consists of persons with diverse theological, political, and social views, we begin a difficult and long journey to discern how we are the church in the 21st century in Shenandoah, IA.

When I first arrived, I preached several Sundays on life in the wilderness; on how to follow God when we don't know where we are going. This is where we get to put those lessons into practice. It is uncomfortable to sit with uncertainty. We want a "silver bullet" that will fix everything. Since we are uncertain about so much around us, we might stop listening to others so that we can feel more certain about our convictions. We are in an uncertain time; we are in the wilderness, and it has something to teach us if we are open: REST, RECONNECT, and RENEW.

While we desire a quick resolution, what are ways that you can find REST and slowness in the coming weeks? Discernment requires listening for where Spirit is moving. We cannot do this unless we slow down and sit in silence.

While our convictions may drive a wedge between those that have come to a different opinion, how might you find ways to RECONNECT with others in the church? Discernment requires getting outside of our heads and listening to others. Even if you have different theological views, might you have similar values and a similar love for this community?

When we feel anxious, it is comforting to stay with what we already know, even if what we already know is no longer working for us. Spirit makes paths where there previously was no path. What practices of RENEWAL can you participate in that might open your eyes to new paths that are emerging?

Concerning the meeting this past Sunday, there were several specific follow-ups and next steps for our church that I wanted to address:

1. There will be discernment gatherings in which we, as a church, will be able to listen and dialogue with one another to discern the church's next most faithful step. These have not been scheduled yet. The driving question for us will be: "What might it look like for persons to have different conclusions about LGBTQ inclusion in the church and still be the church together at First United Methodist Church of Shenandoah?"

2. There was a request for definitions of some of the more technical language from the presentation. I will be working on that in the coming weeks and will publish that via the booster and printed copies in the church.

3. My role as the pastor is to not do the discernment for you, but to be a guide in the discernment process. If there are resources or information that would help you personally, please let me know. If you need someone to vent to because these past 6 years of the UMC trying to resolve this issue is becoming too frustrating, I am here. If you have questions or want to dialogue through anything, I am here.

This will be a long and difficult journey, but that is what creates the possibility for it being one of the best journeys we can take.

May God be present with us in the wilderness; may Christ be our guide; and may Spirit open new paths.

Pastor David B. Clark
